

ABSTRACT:

By placing the contact region for contacting row lines along a side parallel to the side having a column region for contacting row lines, the border of the LC device can be reduced because spacing relative to scribe and break lines is smaller.

5 Fig. 8

200203060001